From The Executive Director

Written by Lynn Tanner, CMCA

At the Board of Director’s Meeting on February 25th, the FY2016 Budgets were passed and will go into effect on April 1, 2015. The Operating Assessment rate for residential units was increased 3% and the Capital Assessment rate was increased 2.94% ($2.00/year per house/unit). The Trash Assessment is experiencing its first increase since FY2012, of $4/year (per house/unit). (Please note: trash assessment is not applicable for apartments/condos). How will these increases impact your assessment? For a house that is 1,000 square feet, the total annual increase will be approximately $13.00 per year and the increase for a house that is 5,000 square feet would be approximately $43.00 per year.

With the passing of the FY2016 Budgets, quarterly assessment amounts have changed. For those of you that do electronic checking or have automatic withdrawals (ACH) from your checking or savings account, please be sure to change the ‘amount due’ to reflect your new quarterly assessment.

On page 8, we are highlighting the potential issue; ownership of trees; problems, such as: encroachment; property lines. This creates several impacts to your property. The surveyors will complete this survey to let us know what first attracted you to Radisson; what do you feel will continue to attract people to Radisson; your new quarterly assessment. The surveys will be sent out via email to all residents that have an email address on file with the RCA. Surveys will be done electronically only, and each email address is allowed to complete the survey only one time. Look for this email to be sent out this Spring and please take a few minutes to complete this survey to let us know your thoughts!

To Go Green, and be as efficient as possible, many things we do are now done electronically. For instance, you can now register to attend our recreational events (i.e. Easter Party), vote in the Annual Elections and be included in the above mentioned P & A Committee survey, once you have registered your household through our Membership Registration program. To register your household, follow the Membership Registration steps below.

Membership Registration

STEP 1: REQUEST A LOGIN
As a resident, additional menu options and Resident-Only features become available to you when you log in. A secure Login Name and Password will be emailed to you as soon as your residency can be verified, often the same day.

STEP 2: COMPLETE USER PROFILE
Change your login name, password, or email address. These are the only three fields applicable; the remainder of the input fields are not actually used by our system and do not need to be completed. This is NOT the Resident Membership Registration Form (RMRF).

STEP 3: SIGN UP FOR EMAIL BULLETINS
eMail Bulletins subscriptions are a significant piece of your User Profile. Get community updates direct to your email, such as: Neighborhood Watch, Community Notices about schedule changes, and Program Notices about pool closings and summer lessons.

IMPORTANT: Be sure to check the box for Reflections Newsletter to get the complete version of every issue, right in your email!

STEP 4: FILL OUT MEMBERSHIP REGISTRATION FORM
Complete the Resident Membership Registration Form (RMRF) according to instructions. All current household members are eligible for membership. Membership Registration is required in order to use many of the facilities and programs.

Each time the RMRF is submitted, the previous entry is overwritten, so please submit complete information each time if you need to make corrections or update your information.

While opening the receipt for my County property tax bill this week, my mind flashed over every controversial issue that confronted the Legislature in 2014. To say the least, the year was full of highs and lows. However, when I looked at the bottom line of that tax bill, I knew we got the most important thing right.

Despite the relentless stream of polarizing issues making it to the legislative forefront, my colleagues and I came together on yet another solid budget featuring reduced costs for taxpayers. As a member of the Ways & Means Committee, I am particularly proud of reducing the County tax levy and rates each year since joining the Legislature in 2012—without cutting essential services or affecting the County’s enviable position of having the second best bond rating in New York.

To put the budget (and your tax bill) into perspective, our conservative fiscal strategy has brought the County property tax levy and rates to post-World War II levels. Property taxes account for less than 11 percent of the County’s total budgeted revenues. This progress is a result of aggressive efforts on both sides of the ledger—cutting costs and instituting tough fiscal policies on one side, while investing to increase revenue through economic development and infrastructure improvements.

As Chairman of the Legislature’s Public Safety Committee, the departments that are my responsibility account for more than half of the total property tax levy (Sheriff’s Department, E-911, Emergency Management, District Attorney, and Probation). One of my proudest days as a legislator was learning that the Sheriff’s Department will finish 2014 with a balanced budget—give or take a few bucks. Many years over the past decade, the Sheriff’s department has struggled to stay within their budget. This has required the use of County reserves to fill their deficit, in some years anywhere from $1 to $2.5 million. 2014’s balanced budget is a landmark accomplishment to be credited to members of the Public Safety and Ways & Means legislative committees, Chief John Balloni, Chief Esteban Gonzalez, and interim Chief Dick Carbery. The process involved very difficult policy decisions, extensive collaboration and more than a few arguments, but the results made it all worthwhile.

Most importantly, a balanced 2014 Sheriff’s Department budget sets the stage for Sheriff Conway and his new command team to continue this progress. My colleagues and I are thrilled with their enthusiasm, ideas and commitment to building upon these accomplishments. We look forward to a productive and fiscally-responsible working relationship that keeps the safety and well being of the public—and our personnel—as top priorities.

Last year definitely had its ups, downs and controversies, but I do believe County government is getting the most important thing right—your tax bill. Let’s see if we can do better in 2015.
The five senses were front and center for our 4 year olds. Mrs. Simiensyk did taste testing with the children, and charted the favorites of each class. They also did a Science experiment where the children guessed how long it would take for a snowball to melt in our classroom. The three year olds loved playing with real snow in their classroom. They learned about penguins, pinecones, snowflakes and mittens, as Mrs. Cicero built lessons around her favorite winter stories. Our two year olds are becoming so independent and, some of them are able to put their own smocks on during craft time. Now THAT’s what we call progress!! Registration is in full swing, and Mrs. Ferrigan is doing tours for families who would like to see our classes in action. The children in all of our classes are very welcoming to our visitors at RNS.

Owen, Madeline and Aidin (3’s am) are enjoying each other’s company during free play.

Mrs. Cali gets the 3 year olds moving to music.

Peyton and Lyla (2’s) share a story about little princesses.

Lyla, Clara, Anna, Olivia and Fields (2’s) are cozy in our reading corner.

Cassie, Owen, Anna and Zoe, (AM 4’s) are all ready for the Texture Walk.

Dear Radisson Residents,

Special thanks to Mr. Gene Dinsmore and the Lysander Highway crews for their prompt response to snow removal at the end of my driveway. Within 24 hours of notification a snow removal crew was dispatched and relocated the problem areas of snow to another area. Since I have a steep driveway it was very difficult to maneuver without hitting the excess snow piles that were left in the street by the plows. Thanks again for your help.

Emotional Development and Learning
Written by Dr. Judy Ivey

In today’s school environment, emphasis is on academic achievement and test scores, core learning, and teaching. Tests can be a helpful tool in deciphering what children learn and in tracking progress and abilities. However, the profile of a child is not complete without also including development of social, emotional, physical, cognitive education and spiritual (M.I. Soto, 2005). Let us look specifically at emotional/behavioral intelligence to observe and assess children. Steve Hein, prominent researcher in the area of emotional intelligence, defines emotional intelligence as the “innate potential to feel, use, communicate, recognize, remember, manage, and understand emotions.” The ability is critical for children to understand their learning. How children feel about school, how they look at themselves as unique persons, and how they relate to others is directly related to their self-worth and the development of knowledge. Here are ways to incorporate academic with self-worth and emotions:

• Help student connect emotions with thoughts and behaviors. Example, when student comes home from school, ask about feelings during the school day. Pay attention to support student’s emotional expression and intelligence by listening to academic and also feelings of the school day.

• Practice silence and listening to provide time and quiet space to think through what you heard. Example, if student says “Nobody likes me”. Instead of quickly responding with an answer, take time to talk and listen deeply to feelings. By embracing the whole child/student and offering acceptance and guidance, you will see combining academic and emotional sides of the situation will allow greater insight and growth in the person.
